June 4, 1999

What's new:

Submissions

If e-mailed, submissions for the next issue of the Community News should be sent to Anastasia Bennett at bennetta@pom-emh1.army.mil. This change is for the June 18 issue only.

As always, submissions may also be dropped off at the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, room 142.

For more information, call the Public Affairs Office at 242-5104.

Holiday publication

The first Community News issue in July is scheduled for publication on July 1, not July 2.

This single Thursday publication date will not affect the June 23 deadline, but it will allow distribution before the holiday weekend.

Upcoming holiday

In observance of Independence Day, July 5 is a federal holiday, and government offices will be closed.

July 3 is a scheduled training day at the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center, Presidio of Monterey.

Military communities take part in water conservation initiatives

By Dewey Baird

Utilities Branch,
Department of Public Works

The Presidio of Monterey and its Annex and La Mesa Village are communities within communities and as such share local problems and solutions to problems.

A problem of major concern to all Monterey Peninsula communities is the shortage of water. Regardless of one's personal conviction or politics, the fact remains that a shortage does exist and California has instructed the Monterey Peninsula and Monterey County to take immediate steps to reduce consumption.

The Army and Navy are California-America Water Company customers. In a letter to its customers, Cal-Am defines the problem as a 1995 State of California mandate to cut back water usage by 76 percent with an immediate reduction of 20 percent. The solution, says Cal-Am, is a seven-step reduction plan with each successive step calling for a greater reduction.

This is to be achieved by charging customers, in our case the Army and Navy, increasingly higher rates for water use above an established base year usage level. "Later stages have stricter rules, to decrease water use", says Judith L. Almond, manager of Cal-Am.

We are currently in stage one. Since March 1998 the POM, POM Annex and La Mesa Housing has supported local conservation practices by publishing and distributing a Water Conservation Policy that mirrors that distributed to Cal-Am civilian customers. Our Family Housing Office strictly enforces the policy and issues citation for violations.

The POM, Annex and Navy facilities are totally dependent upon local water sources and the production limits set by local and state water boards. Through voluntary conservation measures we will avoid mandatory rationing such as that imposed several years ago during severe drought, when each person was limited to 50 gallons of water per day.

Please follow this Water Conservation Policy. Notice: The water schedule is subject to change as Cal-Am imposes stricter standards for water use during dry months.

From the desk of the Garrison Commander

Commander shares mission, vision statement, command goals

We have developed a Command Plan as a first result of our Garrison Strategic Planning process. I want to share with you our Mission Statement, our Vision and our Goals for the next three years.

These statements were arrived at through a work committee process which represented the entire garrison, and as such they are broad and far reaching in significance. They will be the focal point for all of our work energy, energy which will be put to work for you, our most valued customer.

MISSION STATEMENT

U.S. Army Garrison, Presidio of Monterey, provides high quality, responsive base operations support and services to enhance quality of life, to provide for safety and health and to enable Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center to be the world's premiere language institute.

VISION STATEMENT

Recognized for providing world class base operations support; an energetic, professional organization committed to providing responsive, innovative solutions.

GOALS

1. Provide the best possible base operations service and support at the least cost; constantly seek improvements to quality of life.
2. Privatize, partner, and contract out where feasible and where it provides qualitative and quantitative benefits; maximize the use of Demonstration Legislation.
3. Obtain adequate resources to support accomplishment of DLIFLC and Presidio of Monterey missions.

Col. Peter Dausen, U.S. Army, Garrison Commander

Allocate these resources to optimize mission accomplishment.

4. Integrate Army Performance Improvement Criteria across the organization.

5. Transfer all excess real property, real estate, personal property, and infrastructure of the former Fort Ord.

Let us know what you think. We are tremendously interested in getting your feedback.

Thanks for listening.

the Cal-Am mandatory Water Conservation Plan:

“Unless watering is by drip irrigation, through a hand-held hose with a positive shutoff nozzle, or performed by a professional gardener or landscaper, the following schedule applies:

“No watering on any day between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

“Residential homes and commercial establishments with street numbers ending in an odd-number may water only on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

“Residential homes and commercial establishments with street numbers ending in an even-number may water only on Sundays and Thursdays.

“In areas where residential homes and commercial establishments do not have street numbers, those located on the south and west side of the street will water on Saturdays and Wednesdays.

“Residential homes and commercial establishments located on the north and east side of the street will water on Sundays and Thursdays.

“Residential customers are allowed to wash personal vehicles at home as long as they use a positive shutoff nozzle at the end of the hose and do not create wasteful use.”

For a copy of the full policy or to discuss what you can do to help the entire community, reduce government utility expense, and do your share to conserve our limited water resources, contact Housing Officer Greg Murphy at 656-2823 or contact me at 242-5598, 242-6315 or 242-6316.

Free Cal-Am literature, educational material and posters are available.

Change management class set for June 22

A change management class will meet June 22, 6:30-8:30 p.m., at the Chapel Center, Presidio of Monterey Annex.

Members of the military community are often faced with a number of organizational and personal changes.

This class is a model for understanding change, assessing stages in the transition process, and for identifying productive and non-productive change behaviors.

A variety of techniques will be discussed so participants can construct their own change management strategy.

The class is free; on-site childcare is provided. Call 242-7660 or 242-7653 to register.

Anger management class scheduled for June 24

An anger management class is scheduled for June 24, 4:30-6 p.m. at Aiso Library, Presidio of Monterey. Sponsored by the Naval Postgraduate School Family Service Center, this class will help individuals control and better manage their anger.

To register or for information on other classes, call 656-3488.

Test drives benefit youth sports June 25-26

Individuals will have the opportunity to support Presidio of Monterey Youth Sports programs by test driving a 2000 Neon June 25 in the parking lot of the POM Main Exchange or June 26 in the parking lot of the Troop Store, 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

For every test drive taken, Dodge and Plymouth will make a donation to support the POM Youth Sports, and each person test-driving will be given a $5 gift certificate good at any AAFES outlet.

For more information, call Porter Youth Center at 242-7823.

Optimistic thinking class for children June 29

A class and support group for children ages 6 to 11 on how to think more optimistically and gain greater self-confidence is scheduled for eight consecutive Tuesdays, beginning June 29, 2:45-4 p.m. at the Naval Postgraduate School Family Service Center, Building 2.

The class will also benefit children who are planning to or have moved recently. The focus of the program will be on building self-esteem and confidence in children. To register, call 656-3488.

Retiree Appreciation Day scheduled for July 10

Retiree Appreciation Day is scheduled for July 10, 8 a.m.-2 p.m. at the Stilwell Community Center at the Presidio of Monterey Annex.

Sponsored by The Fort Ord Retiree Council, the Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and the Presidio of Monterey, the event will include important information for military retirees, widows and pre-retirees.

For more information or directions, call Judith Costello at 242-6691 or Army Retirement Services at 1-800-213-4354.

Town Hall meeting scheduled for July 21

The next Town Hall meeting is scheduled for July 21, 7-9 p.m. at the General Stilwell Community Center.

For more information, contact your military family housing mayor's program representative.

Volunteer committee members needed

The Asian Pacific Islander/American Indian/Alaskan Native Program Committee is looking for new members. Volunteers should be willing to support the goals and objectives of the Equal Employment Opportunity program and be interested in actively participating in the committee's activities throughout the year.

Volunteers should submit a memorandum through their supervisors, with their approval, to ATZP-EEO-APAA. The memo should include the individual's agency, phone number and reasons for wanting to join. For details, call Heide Wilson, 242-5241.

News Briefs

Sexual harassment hotline

The Air Force's senior leaders want military and civilian employees to remain aware of the service's sexual harassment hotline, reminding those associated with the Air Force the hotline is still open.

The hotline, set up to receive sexual harassment and other forms of discrimination inquiries nearly four years ago, is operated by the Air Force Personnel Center. The numbers are Toll Free 1-800-558-1404; DSN 665-2949; or commercial (210) 565-2949.

AFPC Call Center representatives initially take all hotline calls. Callers with a sexual harassment or discrimination concern are forwarded to a qualified social actions counselor.

Counselors ensure callers understand what avenues are available and also ensure complaints are channeled to the proper authority.

Counselors are standing by to take calls during normal duty hours from 7:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., CDT.

After normal duty hours, voice mail is available for callers to leave messages. Counselors return after-hours phone calls at the beginning of the following duty day.

For emergencies or when an immediate response is desired, counselors are available 24 hours a day. The call center voice mail will instruct callers how to reach an after-hours counselor. (Courtesy of AFPC News Service)

Deliveries available to Presidio

Anthony's Pizza and Robin Hood Sandwiches at the Army and Air Force Exchange Service shopping center offer home delivery to some areas of Presidio of Monterey 6-10 p.m., Monday through Friday.

For more information, call 647-9605.

SGLI and VGLI benefits

A recent announcement on Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance and Veteran's Group Life Insurance benefits discussed a policy change to allow terminally ill veterans to receive accelerated death benefits.

The announcement should have stated this benefit applies to anyone who is insured by SGLI or VGLI and who is terminally ill.

For more information, contact the local Veteran's Affairs office.

NCO jailed for sexual relations with trainees

After almost four hours of deliberations, a General Court Martial panel of five noncommissioned officers and two commissioned officers on May 13 found Sgt. David Kaiser guilty of failing to obey orders and committing adultery.

The court found that while in his position as Training NCO of F Company, 229th Military Intelligence Battalion, Kaiser violated the Command Policy Memorandum on Student Relationships by having nonprofessional relationships with three initial-entry training students and committing adultery with two IET students and one permanent party soldier.

Kaiser was also charged with, but not found guilty of, cruelty and maltreatment of IET students and sodomy.

Kaiser faced a maximum sentence of four and a half years confinement, a dishonorable discharge, reduction to E-1 and forfeiture of all pay and allowances.

After another two hours of deliberation, the panel returned with a sentence of 45 days of confinement, a bad conduct discharge, reduction to E-1 and forfeiture of all pay and allowances. Kaiser currently is serving his confinement at the Regional Confinement Facility at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Results of other General Courts-Martial

Two soldiers of C Company, 229th MI Battalion recently were convicted and sentenced to jail by a General Court-Martial.

Pfc. Billy Bray on April 7 pled guilty to conspiracy to commit rape, adultery, assault, and false swearing.

Pfc. Jeffrey Jones on May 14 also pled guilty to conspiracy to commit an indecent act, committing an indecent act, adultery and false swearing. The convictions resulted from both soldiers' actions during the same incident.

While at Bray's off-post quarters, several soldiers engaged in a night of heavy, underage drinking that culminated in the sexual assault of a female soldier who had passed out from intoxication.

The next day, Bray punched a fellow soldier for telling the victim what had happened the previous night, and both he and Jones gave false sworn statements to an investigator.

Bray, who is married, also later had consensual sex with a female service member in a completely unrelated incident.

The court sentenced Bray to four years confinement, reduction to E-1, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and a Bad Conduct Discharge.

Jones was sentenced to one year of confinement, reduction to E-1, forfeiture of all pay and allowances, and a Bad Conduct Discharge.

Both soldiers are serving their sentences at the Regional Confinement Facility at Fort Lewis. (Courtesy of Staff Judge Advocate Office)

Classrooms offer distance learning opportunities for students, staff, faculty

The Presidio of Monterey announces another step in its commitment to education and training the entire workforce with the opening of the Total Army Distance Learning Program classrooms.

Located in Building 630 adjacent to the Education Center, faculty, staff and students of Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Center and POM can use these modern classrooms to participate in courses via Video TeleTraining, computer-based instruction, and in the future Internet hosted instruction.

Each of the three TADLP classrooms houses 16 Pentium-based, CD-ROM equipped computer workstations for students and a similarly equipped instructor or facilitator workstation.

Two-way audio and video, featuring two 32" televisions, bring an off-site instructor right into the TADLP classrooms.

Military members of all services and civilian employees of the Presidio and DLIFLC are eligible to use the TADLP classrooms.

For more information about the capabilities of classrooms or its equipment, to schedule a training event or to tour the facilities, contact Allen Clardy, classroom manager, at 242-7746.

Change improves TRICARE program

Great news for TRICARE Prime members: You no longer have to pay more than your co-payment for emergency, referred, or pre-authorized medical care.

In the past, you may have been treated in an emergency by, or sent to, a non-participating provider and were required to pay excess fees. These providers could charge you more than the amount TRICARE allows for a medical service in addition to your co-payment.

Under the new change, you will only pay your Prime co-payment. This means reduced health care costs and fewer concerns about receiving care from non-participating providers. This change applies to all care received after March 16, 1998.

Remember, if it is not an emergency, you must contact your Primary Care Manager first. Non-emergency medical care received without proper approval will cost you more than your co-payment.

The removal of excess fees for emergency, referred, or pre-authorized care is another great reason to be enrolled in TRICARE Prime. Prime members enjoy the lowest health care costs of all three TRICARE plans. For more information about TRICARE Prime, visit your local TRICARE Service Center or Beneficiary Service Office or call (800) 242-6788.

Army efforts result in increasing sergeant promotions

By Gerry J. Gilmore
Army News Service

WASHINGTON – Sergeant promotions from the June list will double those made in May, as part of ongoing Army efforts to maintain noncommissioned officer strength.

The Army needs more sergeants – and NCOs at all grades – to replace departing soldiers on a “one-for-one” basis in a post-drawdown, steady-state Army, said Sgt. Maj. William Hursh, the enlisted promotions sergeant major in the Pentagon’s Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel.

“The promotion opportunities to sergeant are excellent, but soldiers must be on the sergeant promotion list to be promoted,” said Hursh, who noted 2,055 soldiers were selected to make sergeant from the June promotion list, while 1,000 troops were tabbed for three stripes in May.

The June NCO promotion list also features 40 new sergeants major, 175 master sergeants, 500 sergeants first class, and 800 staff sergeants, said Hursh. The Army recently changed enlisted personnel policy, he said, to facilitate the promotion of sergeants.

Corporals receive lateral appointments from specialist rank with no corresponding increase in pay, according to Hursh.

Effective June 1, the promotion score waiting time for sergeant was reduced from 90 days to 60 days, Hursh said. This change has already affected sergeant promotions.

“It is important for soldiers to get on the sergeant promotion standing list – 1,500 of the 2,055 June 1 sergeant promotions went to soldiers who were boarded in March and April,” he said. Sergeants are especially needed in certain military occupational specialties, known as STAR MOSs, said Hursh. The program is called STAR because asterisks were used to identify those MOSs on U.S. Total Army Personnel Command lists.

STAR MOSs, said Hursh, received more than 1,000 of the promotions to sergeant on the June list.

Correspondingly, he said, the number of STAR MOSs which need sergeants declined from 70 in May to 61 in June.

Hursh said the Army envisions 3,000 possible promotions to sergeant in July – if eligible soldiers in the MOSs needed are on the sergeant promotion list. In March and April, 2,500 soldiers were promoted to sergeant each month.

“Commanders need to place eligible soldiers on the sergeant promotion list and eligible soldiers need to prepare themselves for board appearance,” he said. “Sergeants are grown by the units through training, mentoring and leadership.”

Distinct uniform items identify Navy chief petty officers

By Chief Petty Officer Mark Easterlin
Cryptologic Technician (Interpretive),
Naval Security Group Detachment

Each man or woman in uniform today is living history.

Our military uniforms are positively alive with the reverent story of uniformed men and women before us who gave everything for their country during war's dark days.

In uniform we communicate our kinship with the past, our cohesion with each other, and our willingness to staunchly defend our country.

The uniform of the United States Navy chief petty officer is no less alive and no less steeped in tradition and honor. How readily would you recognize a Navy chief in uniform?

Recognizing a Navy chief petty officer is easy.

Two of the most common CPO uniforms are working khaki and the summer white uniform. Collar grade insignia consist of a gold fouled anchor with silver block letters "USN" superimposed on the shank of the anchor. One, two or three silver stars are attached above the anchor stock to designate senior, master, and master chief petty officer of the Navy.

The fouled anchor insignia is also on the front center of the chief's combination cap. An identical but miniature fouled-anchor cap device, approximate size: 1-1/4 inch, is on the left front side of the chief's khaki garrison cap.

A garrison cap worn by a U.S. Navy officer consists of metal collar-size grade insignia AND miniature cap device – making it easy to distinguish between Navy chiefs and officers by cap device alone. The Navy officer's left-side garrison cap device is a crest consisting of gold crossed fouled anchors with burnished silver shield surmounted by a burnished silver spread eagle facing to wearer's right. Navy officers wear rank insignia on the right-side of the garrison cap.

Chief petty officers may also now wear the miniature metal fouled anchor garrison cap device on shoulder epaulets of the blue windbreaker, khaki windbreaker, black dress jacket and on all-weather coats.

The chief's full dress blue and service dress blue coat has a rating badge on the left sleeve. Rating badges consist of a perched eagle with expanded wings pointing upward and the eagle's head turned to its right.

Chevrons, rocker, and stars, as authorized, indicate the wearer's rate, and a specialty mark to indicate rating are included as part of the rating badge.

The rating badge easily communicates the wearer's rank or rate and job specialty or rating. All are embroidered on a pentagonal shaped background onto material that matches the color of the uniform coat or jacket.

The chevrons on rating badges measure 3-1/4 inches wide for male CPO's and rating badges measure 2-1/2 inches wide for female CPO's. Rating insignia, chevrons and rockers for women are 3/4 the size of the men's rating badges.

So test yourself. Demonstrate your awareness of the uniform of the Navy chief petty officer and become a part of living history.

Runners compete for spot in annual Army Ten Miler

The annual Army Ten Miler, scheduled for Oct. 10, in Washington, D.C., will include a Defense Language Institute Foreign Language Institute team.

Local tryouts for DLIFLC's 1999 running team will be held July 17, 7 a.m. at the Presidio of Monterey Annex. This will be the third year that DLIFLC is represented at this All-Army event.

Volunteer runners are needed to contend for positions on the two 10-person teams.

Results of this race will identify the best two teams consisting of the best five female runners and the best five male runners to be elected for the DLIFLC team.

The tryouts for DLIFLC's Ten Miler teams will start in front of the POM Police Headquarters, Building 4468, on Nijmegen and Gigling Road.

The course route is five miles down and five miles back, as follows:

Make a left on 7th street, take a right on Intergarrison Road and follow that road. Runners will go around the last building which marks the turn around point. Runners will then be directed to go back on Intergarrison Road and make a left on 7th street and then a right on Gigling Road to the start and finish point.

All eligible runners must complete the entire course.

All active duty service members are eligible to compete, but runners must be assigned to DLIFLC. Eligible students must be still assigned here Oct. 8-12 and be able to get out of school for one or two days to compete this fall.

Everyone on the team will be on temporary duty assignment orders.

Points of contact for more information on the Army Ten Miler or the qualifying race are Sgt. 1st Class Linda Kessinger at 242-6321 and Sgt. 1st Class Daniel Kessinger at 242-6501.

Defense Department reports 'excellent' progress in solving Year 2000 problems of installations

By Paul Stone

American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — You've heard the horror stories: Elevators suddenly stuck between floors, building security systems lock you in or keep you out, power supplies suddenly go dead — all because of the Y2K computer bug.

Now hear the good news.

If you work or live on a DOD installation, or work in a DOD-operated building, odds are good you won't even experience anything more than just a hiccup in services as Dec. 31, 1999, becomes Jan. 1, 2000.

"Our progress is excellent," said Doug Hansen, director of installations requirements and management for the Office of the Deputy Undersecretary of Defense for Installations. Hansen is monitoring Y2K efforts on DOD's 637 installations and buildings both in the United States and overseas. "As of the end of April, 96 percent of installations have completed their fixes and the other 2 percent will be done in June."

Hansen said his office's efforts are focused on five key areas:

- ❑ Energy, including electricity, natural gas and oil.
- ❑ Water supply.
- ❑ Waste water.
- ❑ Safety services, such as 911, fire protection and traffic lights.
- ❑ Security services for buildings and personnel.

The major push, he said, has been on finding and replacing embedded microchips that might malfunction. Everything from security and fire alarms to 911 emergency systems often function with information technology. But embedded microchips are not nearly the problem once predicted.

"In general, we found that only about 3 percent of the microchips we've been looking at had to be replaced," Hansen said. "It's not a big problem. It's been more of an exercise in determining if there was a problem. And what we found out is, we're doing all right."

The Year 2000 problem, nicknamed "Y2K," refers to the past computer industry practice of writing years with just two digits — 1999 would be "99." Because of this digital shorthand, some computer systems on Jan. 1, 2000, might treat "00" as "1900" or just shut down all together. Almost any computer system may be vulnerable and needs to be checked and then, if necessary, fixed to handle the year change or replaced. Microchips are also vulnerable and need to be tested or replaced. A computer system that recognizes the year 2000 date and processes data correctly is called "compliant."

Hansen said once all repairs have been made, installations will test systems throughout the remainder of this year to make sure they function. This is especially important in such systems as power, water and emergency services, which rely on a number of systems to operate properly.

Installations can fix everything on the base, but if the fix is not compatible with systems outside the installation, services could be interrupted, he explained.

He said local commanders, as well as representatives from the Defense Logistics Agency, are working closely with local suppliers of electricity, natural gas and oil to ensure uninterrupted supplies during the Year 2000 date change.

"We have a tremendous outreach program and cooperation in this country to ensure the nation's power grid operates properly and there's great confidence that there will be no interruption in services," Hansen said.

Water supplies are being handled nationally by the Federal Emergency Management Agency in cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Hansen said. Even if a water supply system shuts down, he explained, most can be operated manually.

As for gasoline, Hansen said there are no indications at this time supplies will be a problem. He said commanders will be monitoring their stocks and coordinating with local suppliers as the year progresses to ensure adequate supplies are on hand.

While Hansen is confident about power, water and fuel supplies for U.S. installations, the outlook for overseas installations is less certain.

Rosanne Hynes, director for Y2K Outreach for the assistant secretary of defense, command, control and communications, has been visiting overseas installations, and said the issues there are much more complex.

"Overseas you're dealing with a foreign nation as your supplier for electricity and water, and Y2K progress varies greatly from country to country," Hynes said.

In addition, systems that supply power and fuel often cross national borders. For example, Hynes pointed out that Germany gets 30 percent of its natural gas from Russia, and Italy receives some of its electricity from Switzerland.

"It's not like the United States, where you have a national effort going on that reaches down from the federal government all the way to states, cities and towns," she said. "You have to work with everyone individually."

She said a strong push is under way to ensure overseas installations experience no interruptions in power and energy supply in the Year 2000.

"It's been very challenging," she said, but added that as the year has progressed, DOD has seen increased cooperation and a better understanding by host nations of how important it is for U.S. forces stationed overseas to have uninterrupted flow of services.

In the meantime, installations both in the United States and overseas are developing strong contingency plans for any problems that may occur.

Tuition Assistance for spouses

Tuition assistance funding for spouses in Europe will continue in 1999. It is offered by the Army Emergency Relief agency as a pilot program. Applicants must be dependent spouses of active duty soldiers assigned in USAREUR and must reside with sponsors. This will be a need-based program supporting spouse undergraduate, vocational/technical, high school completion, and English-as-a-Second Language studies. The TA will cover up to 50 percent of tuition, maximum of $350 per term, up to a yearly maximum of $1,750. Contact your Army Education Center when you arrive at your European assignment.

Clarify degree plans

Continuing education is essential for professional development and success, both in the Army and the civilian sector. However a large number of service members have accumulated numerous college credits without a degree, plan, or contract for degree. Visit your education center for a review of your credits and degree plan options that match your educational goals.

Army Officer Candidate School

Military Personnel Services, Building 614, will accept applications until July 16 for the next Officer Candidate School selection board scheduled for September. Interested applicants should check with their PAC supervisor for assistance, inquiries and to pick up application packets. A local interview board is tentatively scheduled for July 28.

OPM authorizes special solicitation for cash donations to assist Kosovar refugees now through Aug. 31

By Sgt. 1st Class Connie Dickey
Army News Service

The Office of Personnel Management has authorized a special solicitation for cash donations from federal employees to help the Kosovar refugees now through Aug. 31.

Normally, the only authorized cash collections for charity in Army offices are for the Combined Federal Campaign in the fall and Army Emergency Relief in the spring. An exception from OPM is required if collections are to be taken for other charities. The exception for Kosovo refugees was granted after the White House sent a memo to OPM requesting the special authorization, an OPM spokesman said.

OPM Director Janice Lachance said the displaced refugees are an "appropriate circumstance" for the solicitation of funds from federal employees. "The Kosovar Albanian refugees are in dire need of food, clothes and all of the everyday basics that will help them through this human tragedy. The most effective way to provide help is through the contribution of monies to the appropriate relief organizations."

President Clinton encouraged federal employees to contribute to the relief effort for the displaced Albanian refugees from Kosovar and said in a statement, "We can best help alleviate the suffering in the Balkans by providing financial support to relief agencies on the front lines."

The collection for refugees will end Aug. 31, so that campaign will not overlap the Combined Federal Campaign, an OPM official said. The CFC is the federal government's annual drive for hundreds of charities and has been held every autumn since 1961, when President Kennedy approved the campaign. Authorization for funds to be collected for other causes is rare, an OPM official said. "In the past five or six years there have been only a few exceptions, mostly to aid victims of flooding." Federal employee donations for refugees can be sent to any of more than 50 charitable organizations located on the web site "www.info.usaid.gov" or by calling 1-800-USAIDRELIEF for details.

Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor. For the June 18 issue ONLY, send ads via e-mail to bennetta@pom-emh1.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (06-04) will continue to run through the July 1 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the June 18 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the July 1 issue is June 23.

Refer questions to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
